

Some Assembly Required

by Skaldskaparmal

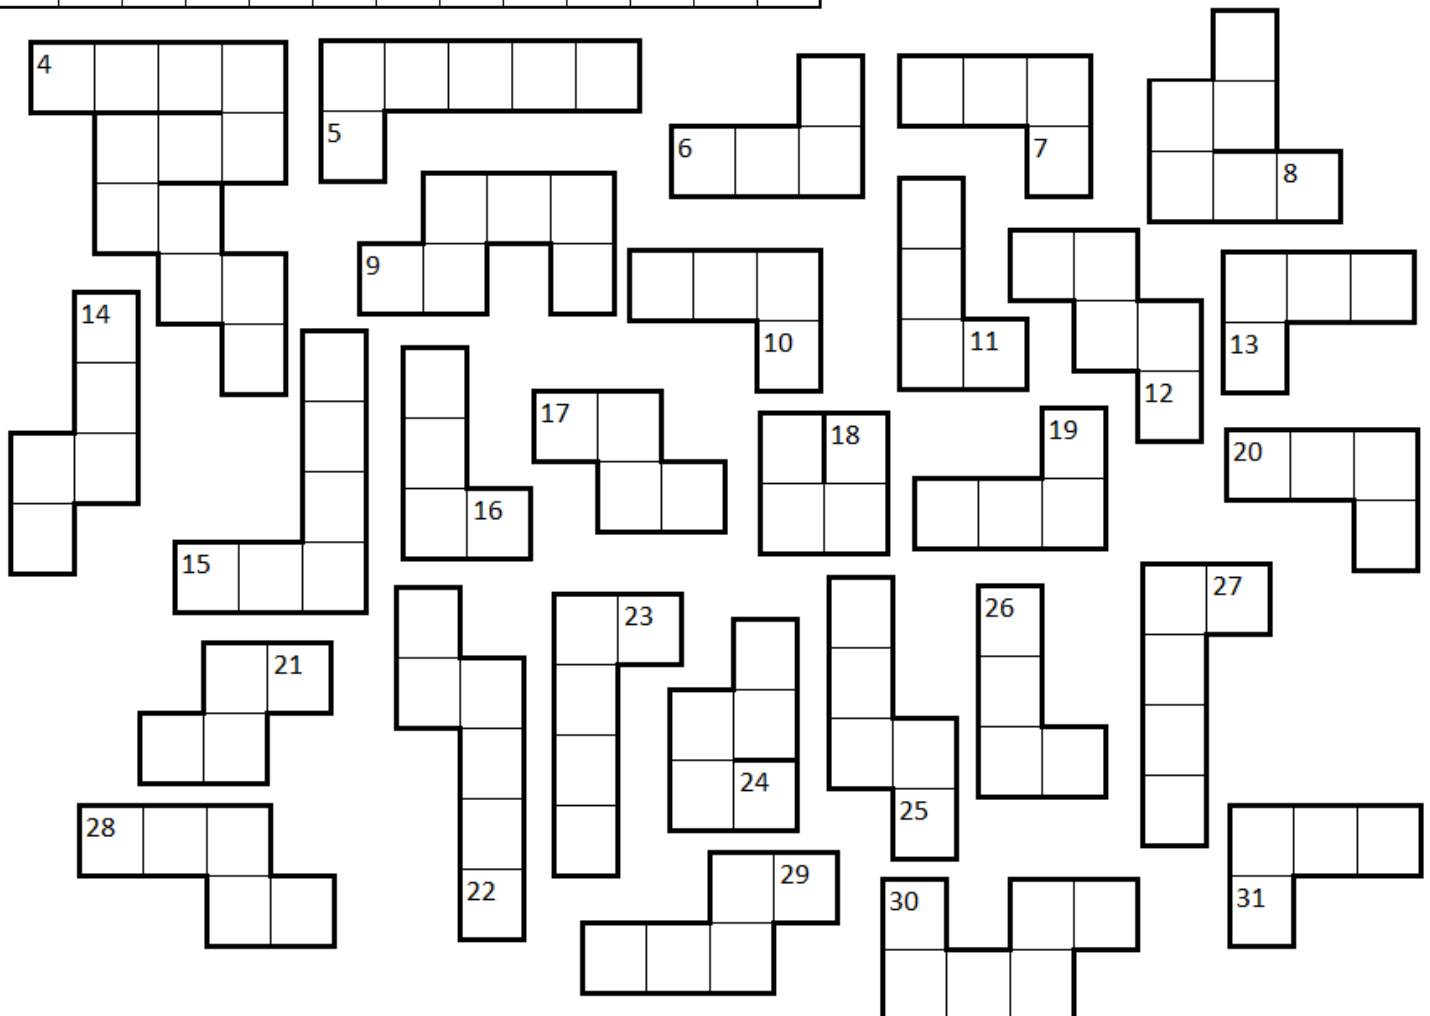

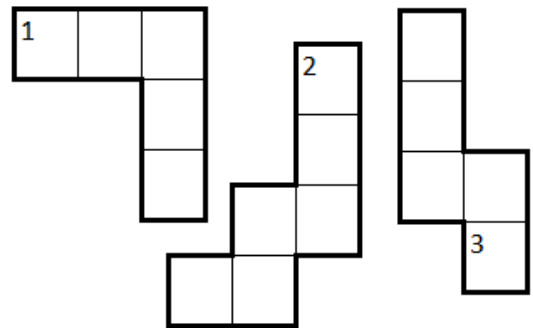

The programmer thought her high-level programming language would be enough to solve this problem, but unfortunately, she discovered that some assembly is required.

Answers to Lines clues are entered in order in the corresponding row.

Assembly clues are given in no particular order. Their answers are entered with the given shape, (without rotation or reflection) wherever they fit, never overlapping with each other.

The final grid contains two phrases saying what each Assembly clue's entry is.
